

In Asheville NC we have recently been having access to the low power FM station WPVM 103.5 lpfm. It is providing news and information unavailable anywhere else, it offers local programming, community access and local shows and music. The other stations offer little along this line. We like our local LPFM and the opportunity it offers our young people, minorities, and the community in general to learn the ins-and-outs of broadcasting. We are all volunteer and offer a voice to the latin, women and youth of our town. No other station has a show hosted, produced and about local asheville women. No other station has a locally produced latino show. please help us keep this important viable voice alive.
